

MANIC MOVEMENT

Bio

Manic Movement, founded by drummer and composer Olivier Wittenberg, is a Belgian band composed of six musicians: Virginia (vocals), Filip (keyboards, arrangements), Fré (lead guitar), Jérémie (rhythm guitar), Bart (bass) and Ollie (drums).

Manic Movement has a long history and created several albums over the years: Discipline (1997), Thousand Sufferings (1999) and Future Dreaming Self (2001), which can be categorized as death metal with grunt vocals. In 2006, they became a female fronted band with more accessible melodies. This period resulted in the release of the album Dark Glitter in January 2009. Today the band evolves in a diverse style of rock and symphonic metal with gothic influences.

After performing on some big stages like the Graspop Metal Meeting and the Metal Female Voices Fest, the band embarks on a club tour in October and November 2010 to celebrate the release of its new album. So beware, it will be Hot Hot Hot!

Chronique

Hot Hot Hot is the fifth album and the second one with a female voice. This new album was entirely recorded in the Manic Studio, which allowed musicians to define their sound and pursue their ideas. The compositions combine the power of the guitars, the width of symphonic orchestrations, a crystalline voice and a tight rhythm section.

Produced and mixed by Olivier, the album "Hot Hot Hot" is released by Moonzoo Music, distributed by Universal. Tradition requires that the album also contains a cover: the song "Vienna" of Ultravox.
